“Creating Excellence”

By: John Buddie

Using history as the foundation for self-discovery, Creating Excellence is an introspective look at the Art of breeding better Collies. Vintage films of Collie greats, memoirs of today's Collie legends, a lively panel discussion with active breeders, and participant workshops all come together to make Creating Excellence an interactive journey of self-discovery on the road to being a better breeder, in an era of change and challenge.

By looking at how breeders large and small, past and present, created their achievements, participants uncover the commonalities that create successful breeding programs. Participants are encouraged to test their own beliefs, principles and knowledge in order to create a personal values structure to help guide their own breeding efforts.

By looking to and learning from the past, we are better prepared for the present and ready to take on the future. Creating Excellence is presented by John Buddie, Tartanside Collies, with 40 years experience in breeding Collies, including the establishment of a line that has endured four decades of fad and fashion and has helped establish the stock of many of today's active breeding kennels.
